Eatery remains closed

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

While the owner remains incapacitated with a serious leg wound, Baldo's Restaurant on Wayne Road in Romulus has closed indefinitely.

The owner, Pompeo Dimilia, 43, was shot by a robber May 13, when he failed to give one of a pair of bandits any more money.

The two thieves entered the strip mall eatery about 11 p.m. May 13 and ordered all the employees and customers to surrender their wallets and other cash, police said.

Not satisfied with the amount confiscated, police said, one of the bandits forced Dimilia into his private office and demanded other financial receipts.

When Dimilia claimed he had no more cash on the premises, police said, the bandit shot him in the leg. He reportedly first was taken to Annapolis Hospital and then to the University Hospitals in Ann Arbor, where he underwent extensive treatment.

A spokesman at Baldo's Restaurant in Brownstown Township stated, "He is still being treated for the leg injury at University Hospitals. I don't know when the restaurant will reopen."

Romulus Detective Lt. Kenneth Kraus said Tuesday, "We have yet to identify the pair of gunmen."

The descriptions given following the holdup included a muscular black male, about 6-feet, 2 (or 4) inches tall, sporting a mustache and wearing a dark hat, shirt and shorts. He was said to be carrying a blue steel automatic pistol.

The second robber was described as a smaller black male, about 5-feet, 7-inches tall, with a thin build, wearing a black stocking cap and red and blue faded plaid shirt. He was carrying a small automatic pistol, police said.

Anyone with additional information on the shooting is urged by investigators to call the Romulus police at 941-8400 or 942-6879.

Tiger owners study Romulus stadium plan

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus city officials have given the Mike Ilitch family the requested information necessary to facilitate the move of the Tiger Stadium from downtown Detroit to Romulus by the owners, according to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

"We always have positive sessions with them (the Ilitch family)," McAnally said, "and we know the game isn't over yet. (Last Wednesday) we finally had our turn at bat. The issue is still open as we haven't even gotten to seventh inning stretch time yet."

McAnally has repeatedly kept the Ilitch family informed that arrangements could be made to have the new Tiger Stadium built in Romulus at no cost to the Ilitch family.

The mayor also has repeatedly said that she feels Detroit is the first preference in the Tiger Stadium competition. But if state funds fall short and the stadium cannot be built in the Fox Town area, McAnally said emphatically, "We feel that Romulus has to be considered the first alternative."

McAnally said the proximity to Detroit Metro Airport is a key attraction as is the fact that, "Environmentally we are a plus also, because nothing will have to be demolished and carted away to make room for the stadium."

She made her latest statements regarding the stadium at a political gathering that attracted about 150 McAnally supporters May 19 at the Romulus Marriott Hotel.

That night it was reported Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer had visited Lansing in search of a scaled-down state funding plan and McAnally felt a Michigan Legislature-Ilitch family deal could be imminent.

But on May 23, McAnally revealed that the city was still being encouraged by the Ilitch family to attend the planned May 25 meeting, where it could present the case for the stadium move to Romulus.

The next pitch in the stadium contest will come from the Ilitch family, McAnally said, but Romulus is more than willing to go into extra innings if that is what it takes to win the stadium contract.

New restaurant to open soon

A new Burger King restaurant - with a privacy wall - will soon be constructed on Wayne Road between Goddard Road and Interstate-94 Expressway in Romulus.

James E. Austin, who also owns and operates the Belleville Burger King, told the Romulus City Council that the new Romulus Burger King's management wants to get involved with the community, "just like we are in Belleville."

When Austin was asked what he meant by "getting involved," Austin said "we sponsor youth sports teams in Belleville and want to do the same here."

The property the Burger King will be located on is now known as 10939 and 10959 Wayne Road.

Austin earlier got the support of the city Planning Commission and Police and Fire Departments.

He also revealed he plans to tear down three existing homes and garages on the 1.5 acre plot. It also was agreed that a "No Left Turn" sign be installed at the Wayne Road exit driveway.

The City Council also approved the Morse Moving and Storage Co.'s special use of property containing a four-year-old building 380 feet north of Wick Road between Inkster and Harrison Roads.

The property formerly was approved under the name Bishop Casting. Applicant David Morse of Dearborn said the Morse Co. is a family operation with 10 family members involved.

He said the company currently has 50 employees and is growing annually. Its other property is located in Lincoln Park.

Summer school
University program aids high school students

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER

An Inkster student credits a summer program for minorities, hosted by the University of Michigan, for helping her to select a future career in nursing.

Felicia Bailey, the daughter of Charles and Willa Bailey of Inkster, attended the Martin Luther/Cesar Chavez/Rosa Parks Career Exploration Program last summer, along with Ecole Barrow of Wayne and Jahan Green of Inkster.

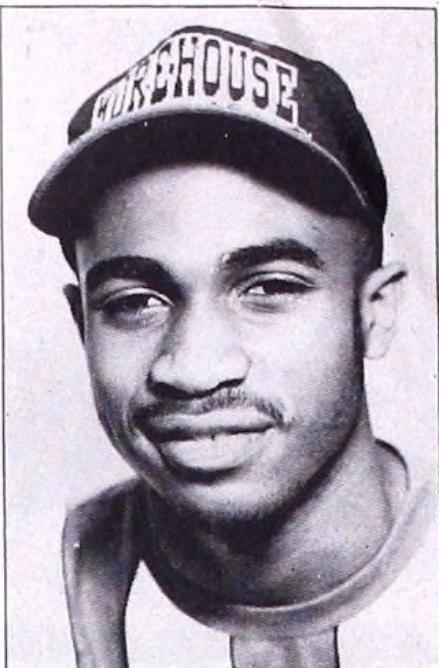

All three students attend John Glenn High School.

"I spent one week studying health sciences, and I was exposed to all of the medical facilities at the university," said Felicia. "I toured the School of Nursing, the anatomy lab and all of the facilities there."

Felicia described it as a "nice program, which gives students an opportunity to explore career opportunities."

"I've decided on a career in nursing, and the summer program helped me to make that decision," said Felicia. "I would like to attend again this summer if I have the opportunity. This time, I'd like to explore African-American studies."

Felicia said she would like to see the program expanded to allow more minority students to have the opportunity to learn about potential careers. Plans have not been finalized for the summer program this year, according to a past organizer.

Goal is 300
Pre-schoolers need books for reading program

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

"Don't disappoint a youngster who wants a book," is the plea of the sponsors of a children's book drive.

When the book drive, launched by Associated Newspapers and the Inkster Literacy Council began, dozens of children's books were received.

But, now as the June 1 deadline approaches, the flood of books has diminished to a trickle, and sponsors of the project are concerned that there may not be enough books for each of the 300 Inkster Head Start pupils.

"Our goal is to give each child a book to read during the summer," said Selinia Robinson, program coordinator. "We feel that it will be a help for them when school begins in the fall if they have books to look at during the summer."

Dozens of new and used books have been contributed by newspaper staff members and subscribers, but another 100 or more books must be collected before June 1 if each child is to receive his or her own book for the summer, Robinson said.

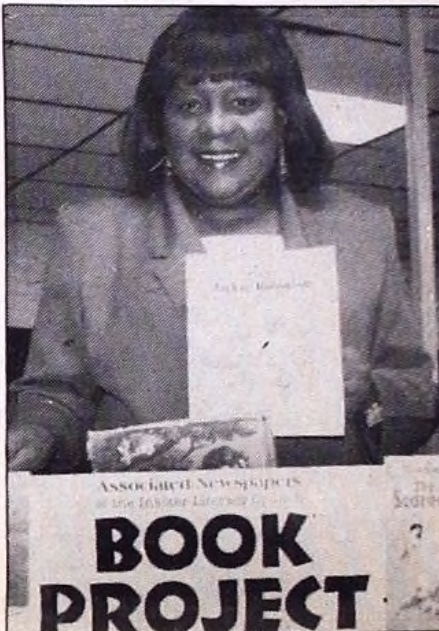

"We will be collecting books for pre-schoolers and early elementary students at the newspaper office, 35540 Michigan Ave., near Wayne Road, and we hope to reach our goal by then," she said. "If we don't meet our goal of 300 books, we'll have to cut back on the number of classes that we supply with books - and, that is something we hope we won't have to do. We want a book for each Head Start child this summer."

In addition to receiving the books, several new tutors volunteered for the Inkster Literacy Program. Those people have completed their training and will teach reading skills to adults in the fall.

Information on the book project can be obtained by calling Tom Mooradian or Joan Dyer-Zinner at the newspaper office, 729-4000.

Books can be brought to the office during regular hours.

Teen is ticketed in crash

A 17-year-old Romulus male driver was seriously injured Sunday night, police said, when his 1982 Toyota failed to stop at a traffic sign and crashed into the side of another car.

Romulus Traffic Officer Rick Schwartz said the teen driver was traveling west on Neville when he failed to stop at a stop sign at the Ozga Road intersection.

The youth, who was wearing a seat belt, was pinned in the car and had to be extricated by the Romulus Fire Department "Jaws of Life" apparatus.

He was taken to Ann Arbor Hospital for treatment, Schwartz said.

The teen's car struck the other vehicle in the middle of the passenger side, Schwartz said, incapacitating the car but not seriously injuring the three people inside.

The driver of the second car was a 20-year-old woman from Woodhaven. She also had two female passengers, ages 15 and 19.

The Romulus youth was ticketed for reckless driving.

The arrest of Walls followed intensive 34th District Court audit and criminal investigation last year by the state attorney general's office.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley reported last month that Walls was apparently performing bookkeeping services for the court, while he was employed as a court administrator and failed to report the income on his Michigan income tax returns.

Walls' successor Nancy Schuette also was arrested by Kelley's agents following the audit and criminal investigation. She was charged with three counts of embezzlement that resulted in the shortage of $270,000 in court funds, Kelley said.

Schuette is facing a hearing on the charges on June 20 in 29th District Court in Wayne.

New president takes office

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville area travel specialist Gary Sampson has been elected as the new president of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

Sampson was sworn into office with the other 1994-95 chamber officers by City Treasurer James Napiorkowski. He is succeeding two-term president Mark Lewkowicz.

Other chamber officers include: David Paul, city building and safety department director, first vice-president; Lewkowicz, second vice-president; Donna Hoevemeyer, secretary; and Jason Lovette, treasurer.

Lovette and Dave Goodwin of Lademan and Youd of Michigan were re-elected recently to another term on the board.

New board members who were also sworn in included: Patty Ayres of the U.S. Federal Credit Union; Larry Williams of Precision Hardware of Romulus; and Bob Sanchez of The Spiratex Co.

Those honored on their retirement from the board were: Bill Crane, owner of the Crane

Funeral Home; Jim Dimitroff, of Premier Printing and Graphics Co.; and local attorney Peter Bec.

The installation luncheon took place last Wednesday at the Clarion Hotel in honor of the late Dr. C. J. Carpenter, chamber founder.

Shortly after his swearing in, Sampson praised Lewkowicz for a "super job" in the last two years, and stated the outgoing president "represented what Romulus and the chamber are all about."

Lewkowicz thanked the outgoing board members for their service and the incoming board members for their expected dedication in the coming year.

"My greatest fear when I took over as chamber president," Lewkowicz said, "was the chamber's fiscal condition. Today I am proud to pass on the mantle of the chamber, while it is strongly in the black financially."

The former president also presented Karen Johnson, veteran chamber secretary, with a special award stating "she makes all chamber presidents look good."

Sampson said the chamber members will resume visits to local companies and institutions this fall, such as to the computer classes at Romulus schools and to Precision Hardware, the business site of new board member Larry Williams.

"We also plan to introduce a 'member's moments' presentation at each meeting," Sampson said, "so that the chamber will become even more user friendly."

During this period of time a designated member will be able to speak positively about his or her business, Sampson explained.

Sampson reminded members that the annual chamber golf outing is scheduled for Aug. 25 with a steak dinner to follow at the Romulus Progressive Club.

Romulus Chamber members include: Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools; Sandra Franks of First of America; Joe Kochanoski of International Paint Stripping; Cliff Smith of Kelsey Hayes; Andy Solak of Comerica Bank; Dennis Worsley of Caterair International; and Dolores Witzgall.

Youth mentors sought by group

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A renewed request for adult mentors for the Romulus Youth Assistance program has been given by Karen Paciero, program coordinator.

The mentors are being sought to assist Romulus youths, who have run into problems with police, school or parents, in the past.

Paciero said four or five adult mentor candidates have come forward following the appeal issued months ago by Police Chief Robert Brown, "but I still have about a half dozen more youths in need of mentors."

Appeals have gone out to various individuals and groups, including the local Volunteer Fire Department members, Paciero said.

"We also hope to be meeting soon with pastors and other members of various churches interested in curbing youth problems in our community," she said.

Brown had made the request several months ago, when he announced the Romulus Police Department was going to take a strong proactive stance against the formation of gangs within the city.

Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) Officer John Leacher will be schooled this month on anti-gang activities and will use that information while working with Romulus Middle School students this fall.

In addition, Romulus Youth Officer Rosemary Cooper has been assigned to co-ordinate the removal of any gang-related graffiti from the Romulus area.

Anyone interested in learning more about the program or serving as a mentor can reach Paciero at 942-7585

He was honored recently on his 90th birthday by his family, friends and former patients. Among the Romulus area residents, who turned out at the party, were fellow Romulus Rotarian Ray Wendland, and former patients, Fred Wahrman, Clyde Laine, Henry Traskos and family of Belleville, Ed McIlwain and John and Maryann Ryzner.

Goerke graduated from the University of Michigan Medical School in 1928, interned at Grace Hospital and completed a year in pediatric residency at Children's Hospital in Detroit.

He served as a Romulus physician until 1992, when an illness forced him to retire, his daughter Andrey King of Dearborn said.

He and his wife, who live in Dearborn, also have three other children, Beverly Goerke-Anderson of Chicago, Dr. Paul Goerke of Dearborn Heights, who hosted the party, and David Goerke of Inkster.

They have eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Man sentenced to 5-year probation in car break-in

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

While his alleged Westland accomplice awaits a Nov. 2 jury trial on charges of assault with intent to commit murder, a 19-year-old Canton Township man was sentenced to five years probation for breaking and entering a vehicle causing damage.

Jeffrey Shawn Crowe pleaded guilty to two counts of breaking and entering before Detroit Recorder's Judge Warfield Moore, Jr.

Westland resident Michael Raymond Alexander, 20, who posted a $15,000 bond, could face a maximum sentence of life imprisonment if convicted of the assault charge and up to five years or a $1,000 fine on each of the two counts of breaking and entering.

The alleged incident occurred March 11 when five men, who were inside the Landings Apartment complex, located at 7000 Lakeview in Westland, heard one of their car alarms go off and went down to investigate, according to testimony taken during preliminary examination in Westland 18th District Court.

Once outside, victim Vince Scovel said he saw the back window of his friend's 1987 Ford Mustang broken out and Alexander half-way inside the car door. Scovel and the other two witnesses began to pursue Alexander and Crowe, who was sitting inside a red Cavalier parked behind the Mustang.

According to Mustang owner Daniel Rohring, he noticed one car speaker was missing and began to chase the car.

"I threw a flashlight at the car speeding away and it broke the window. The other two began chasing him (Alexander) and I chased him too with my dog," Rohring testified.

According to Scovel, the men pursued Alexander and Scovel captured him and wrestled him to the ground. During the struggle, Scovel testified that he was stabbed three times.

According to Scovel, after he was stuck with the knife, his companions kicked and punched Alexander and the dog attacked him.

Scovel, who suffered four wounds, was transported to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne where he received stitches to his right shoulder. He suffered wounds over his left shoulder as well, but testified that they could not be stitched because the wound was too wide.

Jury trial ordered in sexual assault charge

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court judge decided May 20 that there is enough evidence for a jury trial involving an Inkster man who is suspected of allegedly sexually assaulting a 16-year-old Westland girl near the railroad tracks in Wayne May 22, 1993.

A Nov. 2 jury trial has been scheduled for Freddie D. Triplett, 30. He was arraigned in an out county court in March, and a $50,000 cash bond was set, according to Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews.

Triplett is charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder and first-degree criminal sexual conduct, according to Drews.

"The victim was beaten very badly, left to die," Drews said.

The incident occurred near Swanson Street and Merriman Road at approximately 9 p.m., according to Drews. The teenager was visiting her grandmother that day.

"She was distraught about a member of her family who died and decided to take a walk," Drews said.

That walk turned almost into a deadly incident for the victim. It was between 8:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. when the Westland girl ventured out and was met by her assailant who forced himself on her, according to Drews.

After the assault occurred, Wayne police Sgt. Bob McIntyre stated the teen-ager was tied up with her own clothing by the defendant.

"After some time she managed to untie herself and went to her grandmother's house," McIntyre said.

The victim was taken to Annapolis Hospital by her mother. Drews said they were able to locate the suspect due to the tremendous amount of community support and outstanding investigative work by McIntyre.

If Triplett is found guilty of assault with intent to murder and first-degree criminal sexual conduct, he could receive up to life in prison.

Second man sought in cigarette theft

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

While a 41-year-old Canton Township resident is preparing for a bench trial in Detroit Recorder's Court on charges of larceny from a Westland store, a bench warrant has been issued for his alleged partner in crime who failed to appear for a May 13 court date.

Clemmie Seals, Jr. of Canton

Township is scheduled for a June 29 bench trial before Recorder's Court Judge Bruce Morrow on charges of larceny from a person, a crime punishable by up to 10 years in prison if convicted. Inkster resident Gerald Bernard Hammons, 33, faces the same charge.

Both men are accused of stealing 90 packages of cigarettes from the 7-Eleven convenience store, located at 160

S. Venoy Road in Westland. The theft occurred at approximately 1:23 a.m. when Seals allegedly entered the store and said, "I've got a gun, but don't worry I won't rob you," according to Westland police Sgt. Marc Stobbe.

Although Hammons was released on a $3,000 personal bond, Seals request for a bond reduction during preliminary examination in Westland 18th District Court was denied after his criminal history, including eight prior felonies and two misdemeanors, was heard by Judge Gail McKnight.

According to Wayne County Prosecutor Thomas Trzcinski, Seals has served time in prison for "assaultive felonies" including armed robberies.

Local man is found guilty of assault

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A Westland man charged with felonious assault was found guilty May 23 before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Michael Sapala.

Joseph Wiper, 18, was involved in an assault incident in the Farmer Jack parking lot in Wayne 2 a.m. March 18. He was allegedly assisted by Westland resident Frank D. Bell who received two years probation May 6 on charges of felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon.

A June 21 sentencing has been set for Wiper before Sapala. The incident was gang related, according to Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews.

"The victim and his friends were in the grocery store shopping when an argument took place," Drews said. "The argument continued outside, and at that point, a gun was pulled on the victim."

VOTES

Voice Of Taxpayers for Efficient Spending
P.O. Box 74473
Romulus, Michigan 48174

June 1, 1994

Citizen Taxpayers of Romulus. . .

As we have advised you in the past, our committee is dedicated to thoroughly examining how our city officials spend our hard-earned tax dollars.

On July 1, 1993 our City's General Fund (the savings account to be used for cost overruns and for emergencies) balance was $1,958,472.

According to the Mayor's 1994/1995 Budget, the General Fund balance will fall to $41,406, on July 1, 1995 - a reduction of almost Two Million Dollars in just two years.

Our city government's expenses continue to exceed revenues and the shortfall continues to be made up from our savings (General Fund). We cannot continue to spend our limited resources inefficiently and on pet projects which are of no direct benefit to us citizens.

What are our City officials doing about it? NOTHING!

At the city council meeting on May 23, 1994, Charles Griffiths, a Romulus citizen, had the courage to stand up and point out to our Mayor and City Council members that our City's finances were in serious trouble. Mr. Griffiths will receive his Masters Degree in Public Administration from the University of Michigan this year. He has studied the City of Romulus Budget, he understands just how bad the financial condition of our city really is and he tried to tell our City officials that they need to stop wasting our tax dollars before it's too late.

Did the Mayor and Council members thank Mr. Griffiths for his efforts? NO; instead he was ridiculed for speaking out against the 'party line.'

Are you happy about increasing taxes and declining City services? We think its time that the Mayor and City Council change direction. What do you think? If you agree let us know.

Your neighbor and fellow taxpayer,

Dolores Witzgall

A loud message

Last week, a young man approached the members of the Romulus City Council with several questions and comments regarding the city budget.

His questions weren't answered, his opinions were derided, and his integrity was insulted for his efforts. My, what a fine way to build credibility. We hope all in attendance will remember this debacle during the next election campaigns.

Charles Griffiths, who has lived in Romulus for a dozen or so years, went to the council meeting in good faith. He had spent hours and hours analyzing and interpreting the budget, apparently something no one else has done. True, his research was prompted as part of his required studies for his master's degree in public administration from the University of Michigan—but the findings prompted his attempts to speak to the mayor and the city council.

He has found what he labels as major deficiencies in the budget, he has found inaccuracies in reporting and he has found, he claims, practices which are beyond the realm of the normal, accepted standards for community financial reporting and accounting. In short, he has found, he says, that the financial management of the city is shoddy, sorely lacking in adherence to good accounting principles and in need of some professional attention if the city is to be saved from a catastrophic deficit very soon.

True, Mr. Griffiths attempted to provide the council members with a great deal more information in one sitting than nearly any human mind without a degree in public accounting could comprehend. And it is also true that Mr. Griffiths' enthusiasm for his subject sometimes clouds the message he is attempting to send.

But he does have a message—that is obvious. When he questioned the accounting practices and fund balance, the mayor informed Mr. Griffiths that the city had won awards for the very work he was criticizing. Those awards, he is quick to point out, are for the cosmetic appearance of the report and the truthfulness of it—that is, do the numbers add to the correct totals, not is the money being spent correctly and adequately managed for a city the size of Romulus.

We believe that Mr. Griffiths has done an incredible job of research and analysis of this budget, has poured his heart and soul, along with innumerable hour of work, into this project. We believe the members of the Romulus City Council, the mayor and the city administrators should listen to the message rather than the messenger.

We believe his assertions are worth some examination and some study. We think that there is a strong probability that much of what he has found is true and that something needs to be done to prevent irreparable harm being done to the city.

And we believe the reaction to Mr. Griffiths' message is a strong indication that he may have stubbed his toe on the very tip of the iceberg.

Something to remember

We were astounded this week when during the Memorial Day parade in the Wayne-Westland area, we were handed political literature by candidates for office.

This is not a time for political campaigning. This is a time to remember that men and women died for our country. This is a time to remember that we owe an incredible debt to those who serve this country in the Armed Forces. This is a time to look back with respect, gratitude and celebration of the way of life these people won for us. These people lost their lives, their health, their limbs and their futures. Many of them who returned physically whole are still tortured by the horrors they witnessed and the psychological effects of the atrocities man can inflict on his own kind.

We respect the political process. We are glad the candidates appeared to do honor to those who sacrificed their lives for their right to be campaigning for office.

But many of us interpreted the distribution of political literature as disrespectful to those we had come to honor. It was the wrong time and the wrong place.

And we'll remember it in the voting booth.

Classrooms called 'filthy' by teacher

To the editor:

No doubt you and your readers will be surprised that a teacher would write this letter but I feel compelled to make the community aware of a serious matter concerning the health and safety of students at Schweitzer Elementary School and no doubt at other buildings throughout the district. I have already tried other avenues to resolve this serious problem; meetings, grievances, contacting Mr. Richard LeBlanc a school board member; all to no avail.

Over the last few years there has been a deterioration in the maintenance and cleaning of our schools. Classrooms that were once vacuumed each day have now been scheduled for every other day. When custodians are absent, subs if they come to school usually only do emergency cleaning; lavatories, boards, waste baskets, and hallways. Sometimes all to often, classrooms go three to five days not being vacuumed. I wonder how many parents are aware that students eat in the classrooms each day? You can only imagine the smells after lunch, crumbs on the desks and flooring, not to mention the many spills from milk, pop, etc. Carpeting is only cleaned once a year, during the summer, and last year the only carpeting cleaned was the rooms where students had eaten. The flooring is filthy.

At Schweitzer we have several classrooms in dire need of new carpeting. The carpeting has large holes causing desks and chairs to overturn. Some students and teachers have tripped because of these holes. Supposedly the tape that was placed over these gaping holes is supposed to resolve the problem; however, the tape is not sticking and is turning back. This causes an unsafe condition for students and staff.

Last summer custodians were directed to only clean in the schools as far up as they could reach. Consequently the lights, rafters, blinds, ledges and windows beyond the custodians reach are filthy. The dust lies thick, gray, and black. The walls look like no one has ever cleaned them, tile floors have the first waxed into them, and if teachers or students don't clean the doors leading into the lavatories they are seldom washed. How sanitary is this environment for students?

Is such dirt a contribution factor to illness and does the dust have an effect on anyone with allergies?

No one should be surprised that we have insects and some classrooms mice. With students leaving crumbs from eating, and the rooms so poorly kept clean, there is plenty for a mouse to eat.

Some teachers had vacuum cleaners. Perish the thought that we would want to keep the room a little cleaner. I was directed to remove my vacuum or face discipline proceedings. I am a teacher and supposed to teach; custodians are supposed to clean, but the cleaning is not being done. Electric vacuums are out, but teachers are allowed to use a Bissell floor sweeper and cleaning liquid to help keep the room clean; just a little clean! How many administrators go even one day without their work area vacuumed and no doubt dusted? Don't the students of the district deserve the same amount of cleaning where they work five days a week?

Drastic cuts were made in custodians last year. Many have never been called back. Most custodians work hard, some don't, and little to no action has been taken to correct the problem. It should be apparent that if you cut custodial help, classrooms will not be cleaned. Administrators cut and we bleed, what's new?

I would encourage parents to get involved in this serious matter. Find out why students eat in the classrooms. Ask why adequate custodial help is not provided for the schools. Demand that classrooms be kept as clean as administrators offices.

To quote from the custodian manual "A clean building provides pleasant, cheerful learning and working conditions..." Illness and disease can be best controlled by proper cleaning and disinfecting procedures."

If there are any teachers, parents, or administrators who feel that I am overly concerned about this matter, don't worry, it is doubtful anything is going to change. The dust and dirt will get a little thicker and the status quo will remain. At least no one can say they were not made aware of these deplorable conditions in our schools.

Millage vote is supported

To the editor:

My decision to write this open letter is prompted by the flood of editorial letters (all from the same person) which are telling the citizens of Romulus not to vote for the Environmental Fund millage on June 13th.

Yes, I am actively campaigning for the millage because I believe it is the only way we as Romulus citizens and taxpayers can take a direct stand AGAINST outsiders coming into our community and using it as their dumping grounds for everything under the sun. These vultures come from Birmingham - no dumps, landfills or toxic wells there - the same goes for Bloomfield Hills and the other rich suburbs were these "opportunists" live.

The millage can be spent in all sorts of ways from law enforcement to clean-up. As it is set up now (with the blessings of our local government) a panel or committee of Romulus taxpaying citizens like you and I will oversee this fund and make appropriate recommendations as to how, when, where and why the monies can be spent, which is quite an aggressive step forward for our community. Wouldn't it be unique and couldn't we really advance our city if ALL additional millage could be administered in this fashion.

Please remember "10 cents a day will keep the vultures and scavengers away" by sending out a clear message that once and for all that from here on out nobody dumps on the City of Romulus.

Chairperson thanks residents

To the editor:

"The Wizard of Oz" at the Sumpter Township Community Center on May 7 brought out more than 350 people to watch 57 of our local students as they danced, sang, and got intimately acquainted with the performing arts. It was wonderful.

The Missoula Children's Theatre of Missoula, Montana, sent two actor/directors to audition children and create a polished production in just one week's time. This is the second year that the Belleville Area Council For the Arts has teamed up with Sumpter Township for the children's theater.

We wish to thank Sumpter for being such a great host. Special thanks to Supervisor Marvin Banotai and the entire Township Board who through their cooperation and seed monies made this project possible. They have welcomed this worthwhile endeavor into their community, offered their facilities and full support, putting staff members at the beck and call of the theater organizers to get everything ready, from construction of stage sections to the use of copying machines and computers. God bless you for your trust and good-will and absolute total cooperation.

Special appreciation goes to Joan and George Oddy for once again opening up their home and hearts to host the actor/director team for the entire week.

Several corporate sponsors and donations from the private sector have blessed this endeavor and without their contributions this project could not be possible. Much gratitude goes to Metco Service Inc., Rawsonville Woods Mobile Home Estates, Fox Auto Parts, and Carleton Farms, Inc., as well as the gracious support from a special, anonymous friend.

Thanks also to McDonald's of Belleville Road for the contribution of refreshments for our post-show community party.

Special thank-yous go to all of the school officials and teachers who have been so cooperative in allowing us to interrupt their programs with yet another project.

Those others who gave so generously of their time to make this a success are too numerous to mention, but we appreciate each of you tremendously.

With this kind of support, we are sure "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," scheduled for April 24-29, 1995, will be an even greater success.

Belleville adds 2nd gem to crown

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville's best track season in recent years may end next week with its biggest loss.

Veteran Belleville coach Dave Medley on Friday announced that he will not be returning to the team next season.

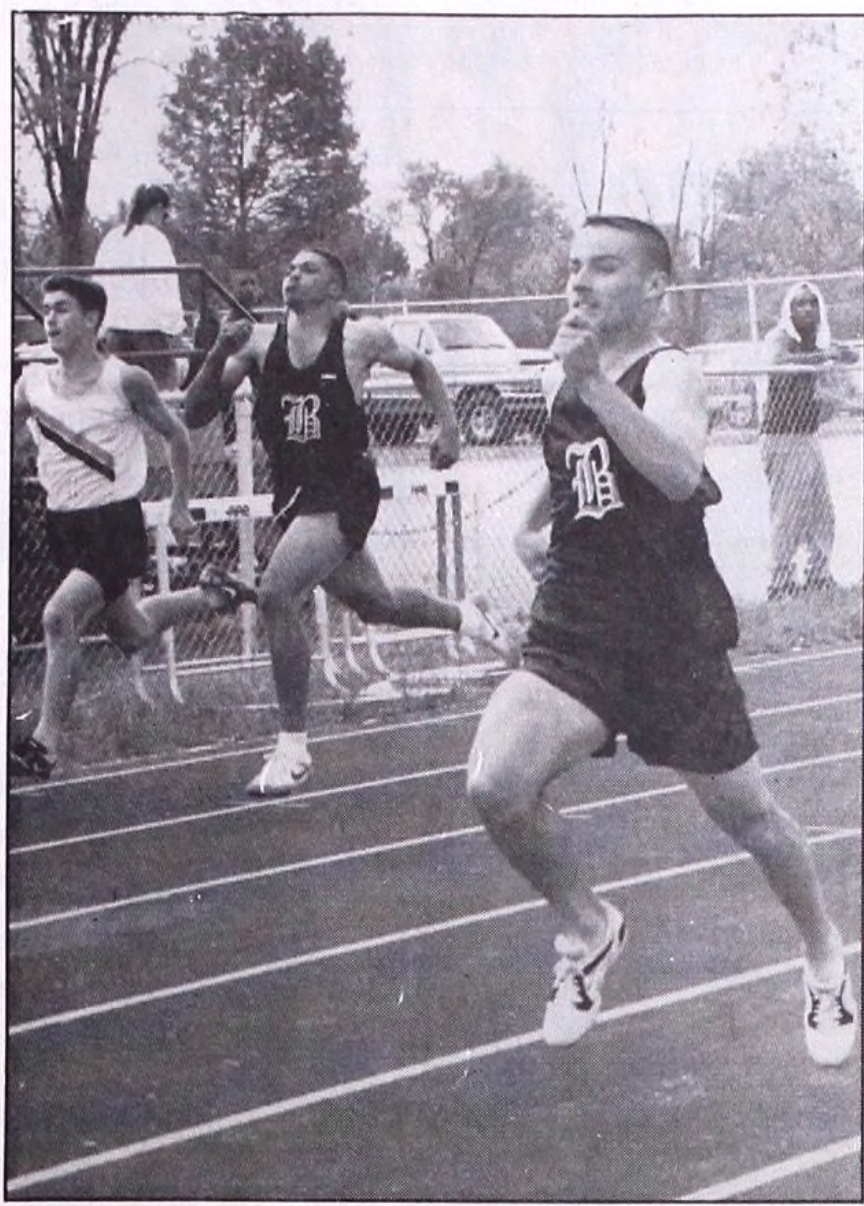

Medley, who has coached the Tigers for the past 20 years and one of the most successful high school track coaches in the area, said that he is stepping down to spend more time with his family.

"My children are at an age when they need me," said Medley. "What good is it to be a good coach and not fulfill your obligations to your family and your children?"

Medley stressed that it was a tough decision, but it was a decision that had to be made.

The Tigers on Tuesday presented their coach with an impressive going away gift, the inaugural Mega Conference, Red Division title. It comes in the wake of another sterling victory - the champs also won their first Class A regional championship a week ago.

"We have had an outstanding year," said Medley, who is preparing to take his track team to the Class A state finals. The finals will be staged on Saturday in Midland. "We got super back-to-back efforts in a row and only after a four-day lapse.

Belleville sprinter Curtis Lunsford (above, at right) leads the pack to the wire in the 400-meter dash. Lunsford picked up four gold medals to help the Tigers capture the inaugural Mega Conference, Red Division, track and field championship. It was the Tigers' second big victory in as many weeks. They also were crowned the Class A regional champs at Redford Union and will compete on Saturday in Midland for the state title. ANP photo by Jim McGill

"I am really proud of these kids."

Sweeping nine of 17 first places, Belleville coasted to the conference title with 196.5 points, leaving a field of six other teams far behind. Arch-rival Dearborn finished runnerup - more than 60 points behind the champs with 131 points, while Monroe was third (117).

Rounding out the field were: Fordson (61), Taylor Center (55), Taylor Truman (49) and Wayne Memorial (47).

Belleville senior Curtis Lunsford turned in another stellar performance. He led his teammates Nate Lewis and Ian Gold across the finish line of the 100-meter dash. Lunsford's 11.2 earned for him a gold medal. Lewis and Gold had identical 11.3 times but Nate was awarded the silver.

Lunsford also won the 200-meters, hitting the wire just before teammate Gold. Lunsford picked up his third and fourth golds by

Tigers dominate league

Post-season honors continue to pour in for Belleville coach Dave Medley and the Belleville Tigers.

Belleville, which dominated the inaugural Mega Conference, Red Division, track and field competition this season also earned 10 of the 28 berths on the all-conference team. The Tigers posted a 6-0 dual meet record and also won the league championship.

The team was picked by conference coaches Thursday night.

Medley, considered the top coach in the league, saw 10 of his athletes named to the first-ever Red Division lineup. Named to the team are: Eric Szyndlar (high jump), John Snead (long jump, high hurdles), Nate Lewis (long jump, 100-meter dash, sprint relays), and Ian Gold (100, 200-meter dashes and sprint relays).

Conference coaches also drafted from Belleville: Kevin Robinson (high hurdles, 1,600 meter relay), Curtis Lunsford (100, 200, 400-meter dashes and sprint relays); Chris Cannon (sprints), Darnell Slaton (sprints), Darren Hamilton (400-meters, 1,600-meters and open relays), Machia Coats (high jump, 400-meter dash) and 1,600-meter relay).

Wayne placed its premier hurdler, Greg Riley, on th team.

The Mega Conference, Red Division, completed its first year of competition. Team affiliates also include Dearborn, Monroe, Fordson, Taylor Center, Taylor Truman and Wayne Memorial.

Wayne hurdler Greg Riley has the edge over Belleville's Kevin Robinson in the finals of the 300-meter hurdlers. Riley was awarded the gold, and Robinson, the silver at the inaugural Mega Conference, Red Division, championships. Both athletes also were named to the first-ever all-conference team. Show time Playoff fever strikes local teams

All the league games are over now and Wayne Memorial High School coach Jim Chronowski is thinking second season.

After wrapping up their Red Division schedule last week, Chronowski and company (14-8, 9-5) are getting ready for a Tuesday pre-district showdown with Romulus, whom the Zebras swept two weeks ago in a double header.

Wayne started last week with a 6-1 win over Belleville. Right-hander Shannan Green, who is expected to start Tuesday against Romulus, went the distance, allowing three hits while striking out eight.

Junior Scott Wetmore got things rolling for Wayne at the plate, knocking in two runs and scoring one. Phil Snow and Brian Johnson also added RBIs for Chronowski.

The meeting last Wednesday with Wyandotte, the Zebras' final division game, proved to be much more interesting.

Wetmore got the start and did not allow a hit until the bottom of the seventh. In that inning, a pair of Wayne errors got the tying run to third base with no outs, forcing Chronowski to pull the junior in favor of Green.

With Green in, Wyandotte squeezed in the tying run with a bunt to send the game into extra innings.

The teams locked horns until the top of the 10th, when Wyandotte hurler Mike Wallace's throwing error allowed Bryan Johnson to move to third base. With the go-ahead run 90-feet away, freshman Clark Boston laid down a soft bunt to knock in what turned out to be the game winner. Wetmore, who returned to the mound in the ninth, retired the side in the bottom of the inning.

The win guaranteed Wayne sole possession of third place in the Red Division. The Zebras finished behind Southgate Anderson (12-2 division) and Wyandotte (10-4). A tune-up game with Taylor Kennedy last Friday completed the regular season.

Chronowski says he feels good with Green on the mound for the pre-districts, but says the Wyandotte game may have exposed a weakness against good pitching.

"We went up against a great pitcher from Wyandotte and only got three hits," he said. "I'm kind of concerned about how we'll do against tough pitching in the playoffs. We might be okay against a team's number two guy, but you're not going to see a number two unless their ace is hurt."

The Wayne ace should be well rested by the time the game rolls around. Green (6-3), will face the Eagles on five days rest.

When they faced Romulus two weeks ago, Chronowski's squad had problems hitting Eagle starter Chuck Sharrow in the early going. Thanks to the heat, Sharrow wore himself out and the Zebras got back into the game. Chronowski said he thinks the Romulus hurler might still present a challenge.

"The Sharrow kid was strong against us, and if he throws against us Tuesday, that could make things interesting," he said. "At the same time, we may not have even seen their best kid."

The winner of the game Tuesday moves on to face John Glenn this Saturday in the district playoffs.

Cosby clubs 7th homer as Glenn buries Franklin

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn High School brought the curtains down on the 1994 Western Lakes Conference season last week with a 10-2 victory over Livonia Franklin.

But the Rockets' 20th victory in 23 outings didn't come without some scary moments.

Franklin got to Glenn starter and winning pitcher Derek Besco for single runs in the second and fourth inning and held that 2-0 lead until the Westlanders exploded for five runs of their own in the bottom of that frame.

"They had us there for awhile," commented Glenn coach Norm Hoenes. "But these kids know how to handle pressure. They got the job done."

The game was a crossover between the two teams that finished second-best in their divisions.

Actually, Glenn shared the divisional title with Plymouth-Salem, however, the Rocks got the go-ahead to play for the overall championship because of a unique system in the league that gives the team with the more crossover victories the ticket to the championship round.

In that fourth inning, Franklin pitcher Tom Madden got Jake Henry to fly out, then got himself into trouble when he yielded a single to Derek Besco and issued a base on ball to Bryan Besco. Incidentally, it was Bryan's 31st walk of the season, a team record.

With runners on first and second, Franklin defense committed its first of three errors that put Mike Bint aboard, loading the bases. Madden also gave up a walk to catcher Nick James, forcing in the Rockets' first run.

That brought up Brian Morrison who drilled a Madden fast ball down the left field line, chasing home Bryan Besco with the tying run and Bint with the go-ahead run.

Chris Turner's sacrifice fly and Matt Howton's single drove in the other two runs in the inning.

The Rockets scored a trey in the fifth and added a pair in the sixth to round out their scoring.

Tune-up Romulus wins, ready for playoffs

By SCOTT HELD
ANP Special Writer

With less than a week to go before the Tuesday pre-district showdown with Wayne Memorial High School, Romulus baseball coach Don Foley's squad had more to worry about than their opponent.

There was that small matter of the weather.

The Eagles (8-19) survived the cold, rainy mess Thursday, to win their final regular-season game, beating New Boston Huron 6-5. The team has a few days off now before facing Wayne in the pre-district round of the state playoffs.

Both teams got started quickly in the first inning. New Boston posted a pair of runs in the top of the inning only to see Romulus counter with four. The Eagle runs came courtesy of only one hit, a triple by Dan Czajkowski. Four New Boston errors (they had six on the night) accounted for most of the Romulus scoring.

Romulus added another run in the fourth when Eric Lambert was singled in by Mario Thomason.

The Eagles maintained a two-run edge until the sixth, when New Boston got a pair to tie things up. Starter Jesse Flores got Romulus through the next two innings to set the stage for an odd bottom of the eighth.

In the inning, New Boston issued two walks, watched the Eagles move the runners with a sacrifice fly and then allowed them to load the bases after a throwing error. Another walk, this one to Chuck Sharrow, got Nick Locklear across the plate with the winning run.

Catcher Mario Thomason had one of Romulus' three hits in the game, knocking in two runs in the process. Gary Harris and Czajkowski added the other two hits. Flores went the distance for the win.

The win followed a double header sweep last Monday at the hands of Adrian. Romulus lost the first game 7-4 as reliever Ryan Evans surrendered a three-run homer in the sixth. Things got uglier in the second game as Foley and company watched Adrian streak to a 12-2 win in six innings. First game starter Steve O'Connor, Locklear and Lambert each had a pair of RBIs

World Series bound

With the help of a pair of former local baseball stars, the Siena Heights College baseball team (above) will be heading to the NAIA World Series, scheduled to be played May 27-June 2. winning the 400-meter dash, beating teammate Machia Coats across the finish line. Lunsford's time was 50.0, while Coats registered a 51.4.

Lunsford and Coats combined with Kevin Robinson and Darren Hamilton to put the 1,600-meter relay into the Tiger winning column. The foursome combined for a 3:28.6.

Belleville also won the long jump competition thanks to John Snead, who soared 21 feet, 1 inch for his gold. Eric Szyndlar also struck gold for the Tigers as he successfully negotiated 6 feet, 5 inches in the high jump.

Snead came back for his second gold as he set the pace for the high hurdlers. Snead was clocked in 14.4 for a first place, beating Taylor Truman's Tom Henderson, who was second (14.7) and teammate Kevin Robinson (14.8) to the wire.

In the 800-meter relay, Medley also fielded the winning combination. The quartet was made up of Darnell Slaton, Gold, Lewis and Chris Cannon who were clocked in 11:32.2.

Wayne Memorial was represented in the winning circle by regional hurdling champ, Greg Riley. The Wayne junior was crowned conference champ in the 300-meter hurdles. His time was 39.6. Belleville was second with sophomore Kevin Robinson, who carded a 39.8.

Belleville also boasted a silver medalist in the long jump where Lewis leaped 20 feet, 11-1/2 inches.

Whoever inherits Medley's team next year should not have any problems being competitive. The Tigers will lose only four seniors through graduation - the rest of the club will return intact.

Romulus to host basketball clinic

Those seeking to develop or improve their basketball skills, may be heading for Romulus High School on June 24.

That's when Romulus varsity basketball coach Guy DeGiudice will conduct his inaugural basketball clinic for players, 10 to 16 years old.

"We're basically going to stress the fundamentals of the game during this two-day clinic," said DeGiudice. "I will have our varsity players and the ninth grade coach helping out, so the participants will be getting a lot of attention."

The two-day clinic will be staged from 5 to 9 p.m. on June 24 and from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

during the twin-bill.

Foley said he was impressed with his team's defense, despite the outcome. Thomason was three-for-three picking off potential base stealers and also recorded a pair of pick-offs at third base.

With the season complete, Foley has several days to prepare for Wayne Memorial. Two weeks ago, Foley watched starter Chuck Sharrow tire in the late innings to allow the Zebras to steal a 6-5 win. Wayne followed that with a 12-1 laughter in the nightcap.

The Zebras didn't get a look at Flores during that series, however, and Foley says the right-hander will most likely get the start.

"As well as Chuck as pitched this season, he hasn't gotten a win yet," he said. "Jesse has five of our eight wins this year so we've got to go with him."

Foley added that Sharrow, who was injured in the first game with Wayne, will be ready should Flores run into trouble.

With so many young players on his squad, the coach says he's more concerned with mental, rather than physical preparations.

"We have to be ready to play the perfect ball game," he said. "Right now, we're a very concerned with eliminating the mental mistakes that lead to physical mistakes."

The winner Tuesday will face John Glenn in the district playoffs this Saturday.

Glenn

Derek Besco picked up his sixth victory against no losses for the season as he notched seven strikeouts and walked two in a two-hitter. Madden was tagged for nine hits.

Jeromy Cosby continued his torrid hitting streak as he hammered a homer for his seventh of the season. Cosby is three HRs away from the record set by former teammate and present University Detroit Mercy slugger, Lawrence Scheffer, who belted 10 HRs during the 1991 campaign.

The Rockets have a busy and big week ahead of them. After competing in the Willow Run Invitational over the weekend, Glenn will place its Class A District title.

HE'S BEVERLY HILLS COP III FORMER DETROIT OFFICER RETURNS TO MOTION BACK

PICTURE SCREEN IN BEVERLY HILLS COP III

Detroit native Gil Hill is back to give his powerful performance in Beverly Hills Cop III. He encourages all of his friends, family members and fans to get to the theater on time so they won't miss his brief but captivating role.

The heat is back on at the movie theaters this week as Beverly Hills Cop III arrives with a surprising plot that is comical, suspenseful and entertaining.

Eddie Murphy returns as Detroit Police Detective Axel Foley. Axel heads back to Beverly Hills after a series of unusual clues in a murder investigation lead him to an unexpected setting for crime—a popular California amusement park.

Axel finds himself on the ultimate thrill ride as he attempts to uncover a criminal network within the colorful fantasy land of Wonderworld.

Co-starring with Murphy are Hector Elizondo, Judge Reinhold, Theresa Randle, Bronson Pinchot, Timothy Carhart, John Saxon, Alan Young and Detroit City Councilman Gil Hill.

Hill has had the opportunity to appear in both Beverly Hills Cop I and II. He said his role in the third flick has diminished a bit, but the excitement of being in the movies hasn't changed at all.

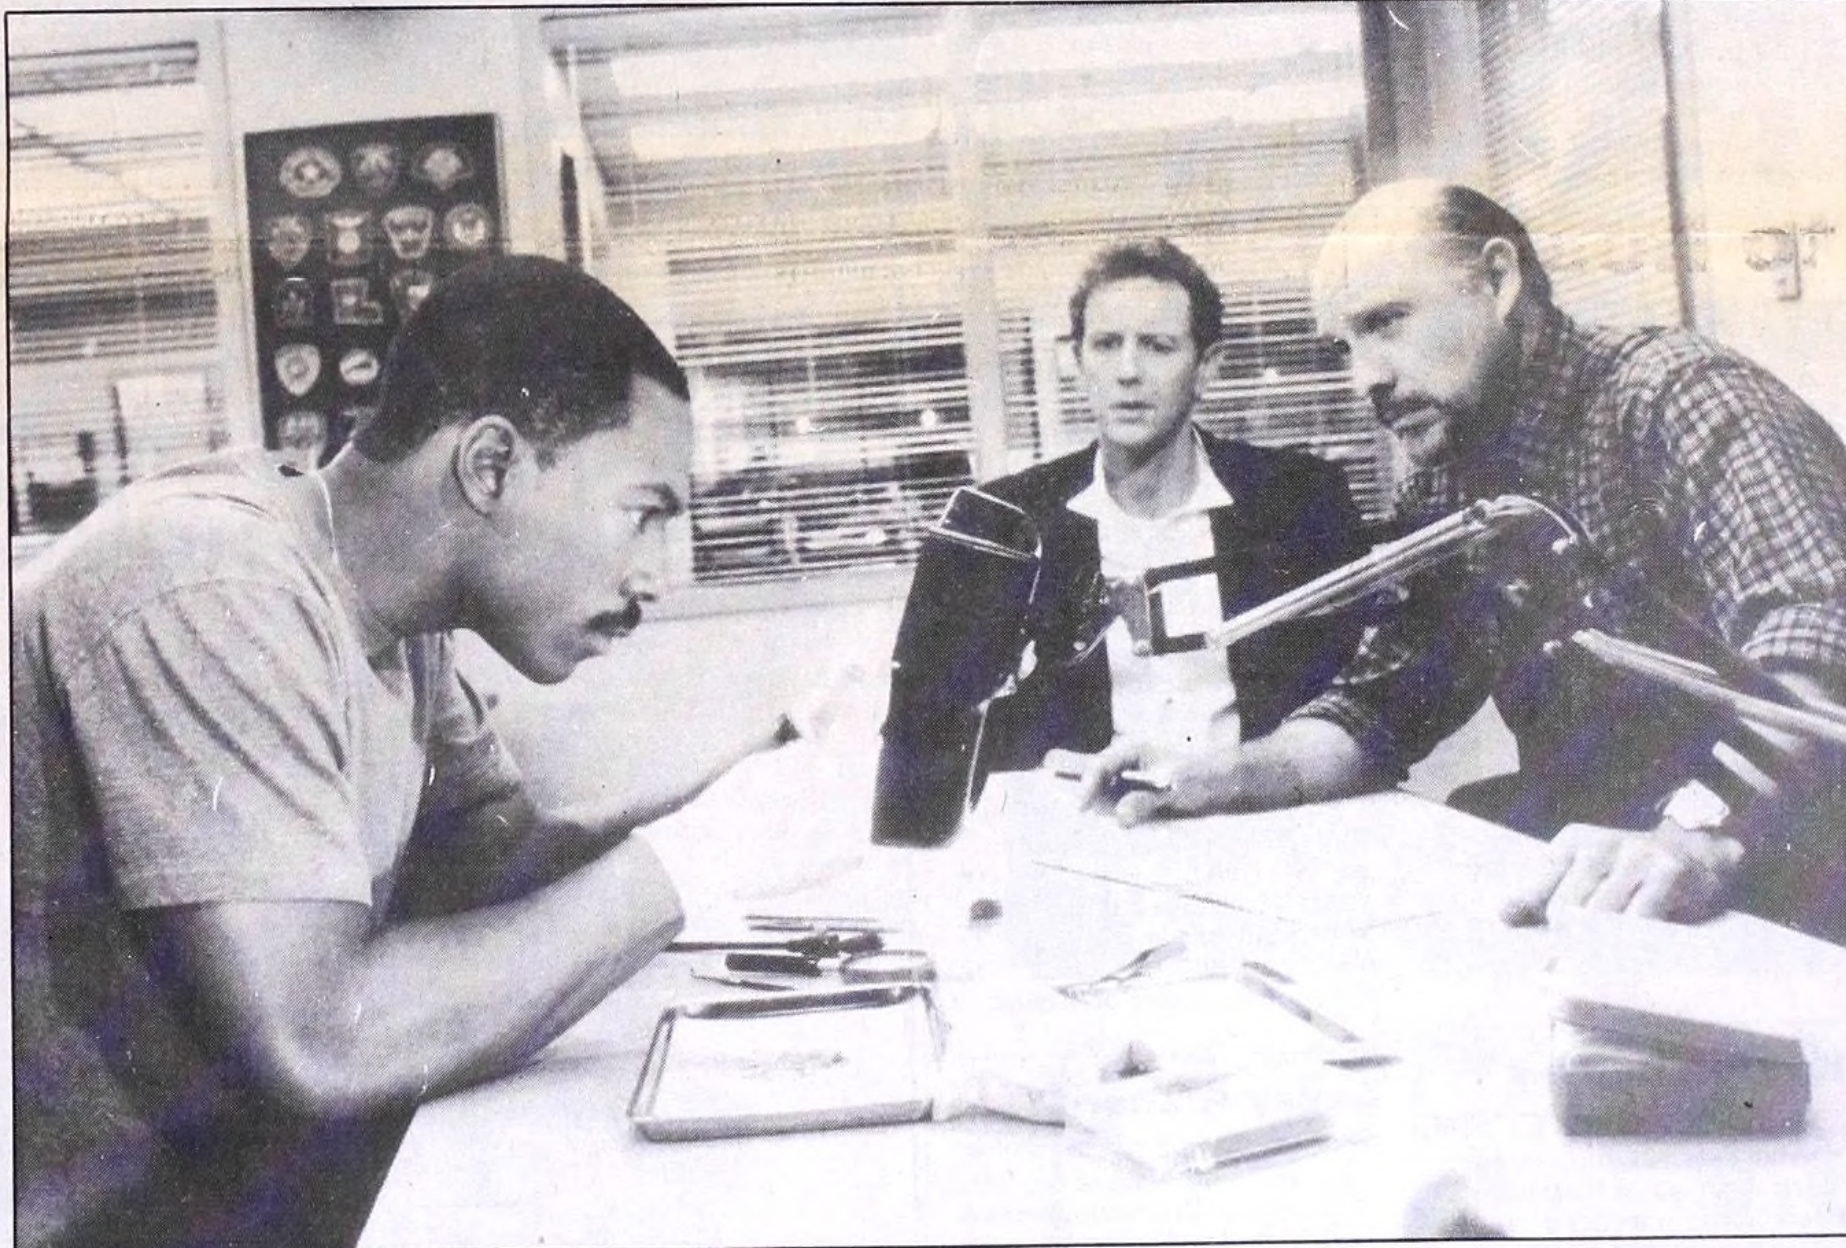

"I was telling my friends and family that if they plan on seeing me in this movie, they had better get there on time because they could miss me," Hill said. "My role has diminished from the first film, but it was still a lot of fun."

Hill's initial induction to the movie world was actually a matter of being at the right place at the right time.

"When the first film came about in 1984, I was on duty at the Detroit Police Department," Hill said. "A research team from Paramount Pictures was given permission from the police chief to spend a day at the department to see how detectives walked, talked and breathed. I introduced myself, and then I never expected to see them again."

What Hill didn't know at the time was Paramount officials were keeping an eye on his actions throughout the day, and they were so impressed with the impact he made on his peers that they approached him with an offer to be in Beverly Hills Cop I.

"Later that afternoon, I saw the director and his crew looking in my direction," Hill said. "They came over and asked me if I would read a part in a script for them that night. I went over to the hotel where they were staying, and meet some heavy duty movie people. I read for them, and they clapped. I left not knowing what to think. A few weeks later, I was asked to be on the set and was handed a contract."

Hill said working with such quality celebrities as Eddie Murphy has been a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

"The first time I went on the set, I felt like a kid in a candy shop," Hill said. "I didn't go in there thinking I knew everything. It would be a sin for me to do that knowing that God gave me a break like this. I was and still am very grateful for the opportunity."

Although Hill is now somewhat a natural for the business, he said he doesn't plan just yet to make a career out of acting.

"I'm just enjoying being on the Detroit city council and being with my grand kids," Hill said. "I'm also proud to say that I've overcome a big obstacle recently. I've smoked for 45 years, and I just gave it up. I've always enjoyed smoking, but you know, with all of the emphasis on not smoking especially in offices and public areas, you get tired running in and out of buildings just to get a smoke."

So what was it like to work side by side with a renowned star like Murphy?

"You know, the first time I met Eddie, he was already established as a star then and was a multi-millionaire," Hill said. "What really impressed me about him was he never had his derriere on his shoulder during the entire shoot. He treated me and my family like we were a part of his."

Beverly Hills Cop III was filmed on sound stages at Paramount, Universal and Warner Bros. as well as locations in and around Los Angeles, including Beverly Hills

What's cookin'?

Local chef excels with special pies, breads

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

There's no doubt that Tom Preniczky is the best - most innovative - cook on the block. And, if you have any questions, just take a bite of his Innovative Apple-Cherry Pie.

Preniczky, who resides in Westland, is one of the Greenfield Village chefs who designed special foods for the new restaurant, A Taste of History.

Because his specialty is desserts, Preniczky was called up to provide a new twist to the all-American favorite, apple pie.

"It's not really a historical recipe, but it is based on the foods available and popular in early America," Preniczky said. "I used the dried cherries because dried fruits were used a lot in cooking and baking during that period."

Nothing on the menu can be described as ordinary. Each food item has either a special place in history or was adapted from some type of traditional fare. For example, a Dandy Weed Salad, a special recipe of George Washington Carver, is on the menus as well as a Colonial Herb Soup as prepared at the Daggett Farm and a Black Bean Soup as prepared at the Firestone Farm.

The Greenfield Village chef became interested in cooking and baking as a youngster watching both of his parents cook.

"Their cooking sparked my interest in cooking, especially my father. When I was growing up, you didn't see too many fathers in the kitchen," he said. "I enjoy cooking and baking at work, but I don't find time when I'm at home. I go to school, and my wife and I have a 16-month-old child, so there's really no time for elaborate meals at home."

His favorite luncheon at the Taste of History is the Rail-roaders' Lunch - sliced turkey sandwich with cheddar cheese, red onion and honey-cup mustard on hobo bread with fruit and a brownie. For dessert, of course, would be a slice of thick, fruit-filled Innovative Apple-Cherry Pie.

Preniczky said his job at Greenfield Village has been a rare opportunity for a chef. Not only are the surroundings pleasant, but he has been able to have a hand in developing new items for the menu.

"Our executive chef guides me, but he also lets me do my own thing. I have a hardworking, dedicated staff. Without them I wouldn't be able to do the job that I do," he said. "It's also wonderful to work in a new kitchen where all of the equipment is new and there is air conditioning, too."

The kitchen at A Taste of History cooks foods for its own dining room plus food for the Eagle Tavern next door.

In addition to the dozens of loaves of bread and scores of cookies that are baked for the dining rooms, many bread and dessert items are purchased by visitors.

"This weekend, we'll probably sell 5,000 cookies here," Preniczky said.

Preniczky began his training in the culinary arts department of Schoolcraft College and worked as a pastry chef in two area restaurants before going to Chicago to work at two Hyatt hotel restaurants. He returned to western Wayne County and enrolled in Eastern Michigan University, where he is currently finishing his hospitality management degree. His goal is to earn a master's degree in food science and "get out of the kitchen" as a quality control manager.

Innovative Apple-Cherry Pie
7-1/2 cups Granny Smith apples
1 cup dried cherries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup (granulated) sugar
1-1/2 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare dough for a 10-inch pie shell and top crust. Peel, core and slice apples.

Combine apples, dried cherries and lemon juice in a large bowl; toss. In a separate bowl, combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and spices in a bowl; toss.

Add dry ingredients to fruit mixture and toss thoroughly. Spoon filling into pie shell and cover with top crust. Bake one hour.

Westland chef Tom Preniczky, far right, and his dauntless crew of kitchen wizards are responsible for all the dishes served at the new Greenfield Village restaurant which features authentic dishes of the past along with creations of the inventive culinary minds in the kitchen. Pre-trial set in shooting

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A Westland man charged with assault with intent to murder and felony firearm in the shooting of a 23-year-old Detroit resident is expected to appear for a June 3 pre-trial in the 19th District Court before Judge William Runco.

Antoine Jones, 18, allegedly shot Detroit resident Deon Morgan in the shoulder after the two fought on a basketball court outside the Dearborn Police Department at approximately 4 p.m. May 21.

According to Dearborn police, several youths were playing basketball when the altercation began between the individuals.

At one point during the argument, Jones went to his car and pulled out a gun. He returned to the court area and allegedly shot the victim once in the arm, according to police. No other players were injured.

Jones fled the scene on foot. It was only a few minutes before police arrested Jones several blocks from the Dearborn

Police Department.

The victim was taken to Oakwood Hospital. Police officials stated that the Detroit man was expected to be released from the hospital May 27.

Jones appeared for an arraignment May 23 in the 19th District Court before Judge William Runco. A $100,000 bond was set.

If the defendant is found guilty of assault with intent to murder and felony firearm, he could receive up to life in prison, according to police.

Good cooks are sought

She may prepare the best strawberry short cake known to man or perhaps her specialty is grilled salmon. It could be that the aroma of her freshly-baked cinnamon rolls drives the neighborhood into a frenzy every Saturday morning or perhaps her potato salad has been the stuff battles are made of.

Whatever her specialty and whoever she is, she has obtained some degree of fame for her cooking skills. And we'd like to meet her.

In response to numerous requests, Associated Newspapers will be bringing back our food pages--and using local cooks as the subjects of our stories. We need some very good cooks who reside in our circulation area to feature and would appreciate nominations from the people who know them best--those that have tasted their culinary efforts.

If you have a cook to nominate, send her (or his) name, address, and a phone number where the subject of your admiration can be reached during the day to: Best Cook on the Block, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Mich. 48184.

Garage sales provide both trash and treasures

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Spring officially arrives when tulips bloom, lilacs blossom, robins return and garage sale signs sprout around the neighborhood.

Garage sales are indisputable proof that "one man's trash is another man's treasure."

Shoppers browsing through boxes and crates and on tables and hangers soon find that there is a wealth of treasure in the discards of the sellers.

And, there also is a "treasure" for the garage sale operator as he or she earns dollars for the items that are no longer useful or needed by the household.

Items most in demand in garage sales are appliances, baby items, bikes, lawn furniture, musical instruments, sports equipment, used clothing and toys. Knick-knacks, books, camping equipment, recreational equipment and furniture also are popular items.

Garage sales also are fertile hunting grounds for antique fanciers - many of whom make the rounds of all of the local sales in hopes of discovering a rare item among the offerings.

The difference between a successful and disappointing garage sale revolves around advertising and preparation, according to Nanci Richardson of the Associated Newspapers classified advertising department.

"When writing your ad, begin with a few larger items and include some catchy wording," Richardson advised. "Our classified people can help with the wording of your ad."

She advises garage sale operators not to place their phone numbers in their ads because they may wind up answering the phone during the sale hours and not be able to take care of customers.

"Set displays up early and put everything you have to sell out first, because the best crowds are usually at the start," Richardson said.

She noted that a free booklet, Have Your Own Garage Sale, is available to those who place their garage sale notices in the classified section of Associated Newspapers by calling 729-3300 or 697-9191.

The booklet includes ideas on when and where to conduct sales, items that are in demand, how to display and price items.

Romulus man faces assault charge

A Romulus man was arrested May 26 for allegedly assaulting the owner of the Charlie's Too establishment on Michigan Avenue in Wayne.

Eric Leon Bleser, 32, was arraigned May 28 in an out-county court on charges of felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon. He faces a June 8 examination before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Bleser allegedly pointed a gun at the Charlie's Too owner at approximately 8:30 p.m. May 26. Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews said that weapon was seized along with other guns the defendant had in his vehicle at the time of the arrest.

"A $5,000 personal bond was issued," Drews said. "He does not have a previous criminal history."

Police investigate armed robbery

The Wayne Police Department is investigating an armed robbery incident which occurred at 12:30 a.m. May 28 at the White Castle restaurant on Michigan Avenue in Wayne.

"A lone black male entered White Castle and implied he had a gun," said Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews. "He robbed the establishment and then fled on foot in an easterly direction."

The suspect is described as 5-foot, 10-inches tall, between 30 to 35 years old and weighing approximately 150 pounds.

Anyone with information on the incident is requested by Drews to contact the Wayne Police Department at 721-1414.

Burglar sentenced to prison

Rex Warlick listened in silence as Judge Michael Sapala of the Detroit Recorder's Court sentenced him to three to five years at Jackson Prison for his part in breaking into and entering a party store in Canton Township last April.

Township police responded to the Napier Party store on Ann Arbor Road at 1:15 a.m. April 19 and found a small, broken window. Upon closer examination, police discovered store property in the driveway and an abandoned vehicle parked nearby.

The owner of the vehicle was arrested at 5:30 a.m. and Warlick, 35, was arrested in Plymouth Township four hours later.

Warlick borrowed the car from Marion Erlenbusch to commit the crime. She said her attorney, Beverly Jasper

Drug bust nets $70,000 in narcotics, electronics

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A recent undercover police operation in Wayne has resulted in the arrest of a 33-year-old man police believe may be one of the largest-volume drug dealers in the county.

Jonathon Baker, 33 of Wayne, was arraigned in an out-county court May 28 on charges of drug trafficking and possession with intent to deliver. He is being held in the Wayne County jail in lieu of a $350,000 cash bond, according to Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews.

"This arrest was a result of a lengthy investigation," Drews said. "This individual is considered a major drug player in the area."

Police seized approximately $70,000 worth of drugs from the defendant's Park Hill apartment in Wayne. Upon entry, officers also found numerous electronic items and jewelry which is suspected to have been stolen.

"The defendant is a parole violator," Drews said. "He was running a business in Inkster and in this area. Several of the articles that were stolen were from Brighton."

Wayne Police Chief John Colligan said his department worked numerous hours on the case, and he was very pleased with the arrest.

"I can't praise enough the caliber and commitment of Lt. Mel Drews and Sgt. Michael Sumneracki," said Colligan. "When this case started to unfold, these two individuals worked non-stop until they had the person in custody.

"We're talking about a street value of drugs seized worth $50,000 to $70,000. I'm pleased we were able to take a major narcotics seller off of the streets."

A June 8 examination has been scheduled for Baker before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold. Drews said if the defendant is found guilty of drug trafficking and possession with intent to deliver, he could receive up to 20 years in prison.

Baker is also a fourth-time habitual criminal, according to Drews, which means he could also receive up to a life sentence.

Big wheel Cyclist's bike is featured in film

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Bill Smith is literally a "big wheel" in cycling circles.

Not only does the Westland resident ride an antique high-wheel bike, but he is the state captain of the Wheelmen bicycle club.

Because Smith is well known as a collector of bicycles, he was asked by Greenfield Village officials to provide a vintage bicycle for movie-maker James Burke when he filmed a segment of Connections 2 at the village.

"I received a call asking for two men's safety bikes of the 1890s period," Smith said. "I had one available, and I quickly fixed up the second bike and brought them to Greenfield Village."

Smith explained that the "safety" bike is what we would refer to as a standard bicycle, as opposed to the high-wheel, "bone-shaker" that preceded it.

The filmmaker rode one of the bikes for the "picnic" segment of the special, in which he cycles around the village and picnics on a grassy slope across from the covered bridge. The 20-part series appears on The Leaning Channel, but as yet, the Greenfield Village segment has not been aired.

"The bike he rode was a Lovell Diamond, but I can't identify the other bike because it had no name plate," Smith said. "Some people collect only bicycle name plates. They remove them from the bicycles, and later when the bikes are sold, the purchaser has no idea what make it is unless there is some special identification on it."

Area man receives probation for assault

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A 26-year-old Westland man, who pleaded guilty to the reduced charge of aggravated assault in the Aug. 4, 1993 beating of a local bill collector, was sentenced to one year probation before Detroit Recorder's Judge Maggie Drake.

The defendant put the gun down, went to the door, grabbed the victim and threw him onto the front lawn ...

Ladarin Madroe Best was originally charged with two counts of felonious assault and one count of felony firearms, felonies punishable up to six years in prison.

The incident occurred around 4 p.m. when a man employed at a rent-to-own company was struck with a broom handle and threatened with a gun when he came to collect payment for the company, Westland police said.

The attack occurred when Richard Lyle Miller, 35, employed at a rent-to-own company, came to the 2800 block of McDonald Street demanding payment on a rented television set.

Miller, who came to the home with another 23-year-old store employee, was arguing with a 27-year-old female resident of the home about the payment when Best pulled up in his automobile and approached the victim, police said.

After hearing the two arguing, Best entered the home, asked the woman where the bullets for her gun were and returned to the door with a loaded gun, police reports said.

Best told the woman to open the door and told the bill collector, "I got a bullet for you," according to police. The defendant put the gun down, went to the door, grabbed the victim and threw him onto the front lawn where he began punching the employee and beating him with the handle of a broomstick, police said.

When officers arrived at the scene, they observed two large welts on the victim's forehead. The 23-year-old witness told police Best had pointed a gun at him in the past when he tried to collect money owed to the rental company.

Local ministers accused of sex crime

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Two local ministers apparently aren't practicing what they preach.

And a newspaper reporter, instead of reporting the news, was making it last night.

The three men were among a score who were arrested in the city of Inkster for attempting to solicit sex.

Unfortunately for the men, the objects of their affections were police officers.

Inkster police refused to reveal the names of the defendants, pending their arraignments on the charges.

"We're not going to release any names now," said Inkster Detective Charles Hines, who led the sting operation. "But, yes, there were two prominent ministers and a reporter who were arrested. But there are some other people, too."

"They will have their day in court."

Hines did reveal that one of the ministers is from Westland; the other from Canton Township. He would not say which newspaper the reporter employs the reporter.

"Who knows," Hines quipped, "he may have been on special assignment."

Hines said that during a period of four weeks some 70 men have been arrested on various sex charges. He said one of the men said he was from Kentucky. But the majority were from the area.

"You'll find people who work for the major auto companies in this latest group that we arrested, and you know I would hate to be in their shoes. What do these people tell their wives and their children?"

Hines said that the department is going to continue the crackdown on "johns" and said that the message to those seeking drugs and sex in Inkster is clear.

"If you break the law, you're going to pay. We don't care who you are or what your profession is."

3 area men convicted in house firebombing

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

An Inkster woman told a Wayne County Recorder's Court jury that she owed drug money to an Inkster drug dealer and when she was late paying, they firebombed her house.

Kimberly Fox, the victim and key witness against the three men, said her house had been raked with bullets the week before someone tossed three fire bombs into her modest home located in the southeast section of the city.

Fox's testimony helped convict the defendants: Donyal Wesley, 22; Edward Brown, 20, and Dana Freeman, 22 - all of Inkster - of arson.

The week-long case was tried in the courtroom Judge

Helen Brown, who has not set a sentencing date.

According to police and court records, Fox was standing in front of her house on Nov. 27, 1993 when the defendant, Wesley, pulled up in his car with the two co-defendants in the vehicle.

She said an argument followed the meeting and Wesley returned to the vehicle but not before he threatened her and warned that: "We are going to smoke this bitch out." The three men then drove off.

Later that evening, Fox told the court that she was in her house with a friend when someone threw three fire bombs into the building. One of the bombs landed in the bedroom,

Warrant issued for Westland man suspected in 9 armed robberies

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Westland police have arrested a local man in connection with nine armed robberies which have occurred in the city since January, Westland police Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

The 30-year-old Westland man confessed to three of the armed robberies, Stobbe said, including the most recent May 29 robbery at Baskin Robbins ice cream store, located at 8280 N. Merriman Road. The suspect also admitted to a May 18 robbery at Baskin Robbins and a Feb. 24 robbery at Dandy Oil/Marathon gas station, located at 31425 Ann Arbor Trail, Stobbe said.

The Westland man is expected to be arraigned on armed robbery charges in Westland 18th District Court in connection with three robberies at Dandy Oil, four robberies at Baskin Robbins and the March 3 robbery of a 23-year-old Dearborn woman of her purse at gunpoint on the 3100 block of Conway Street in Westland.

All of the robberies involved the perpetrator wearing a ski mask, except for the purse robbery in which the mask was pulled over the top of the robber's head as a hat, Stobbe said.

The Dandy Oil robberies occurred on Jan. 26 and March 6. The latest Baskin Robbins robbery occurred around 10:15 p.m. when the robber entered the store carrying a blue steel semi-automatic pistol and ordered all seven people inside the store to the floor, according to police reports.

All complied and the assailant then pointed his gun at a 16-year-old employee and ordered her to get all of the money out the cash register. After the gunman got the $150 cash, he told the employee to get back on the ground and fled the store westbound on foot, police said.

As the robber was leaving the store, a 26-year-old Garden City man who was exiting his car in front of the location, saw the robber pull the mask from his face. When the perpetrator saw the man, the gunman ordered him to the ground and fled the location.

Voters to decide fate of school millage

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus Community School District, which is losing 30.15 mills following voters' approval of the Proposal A school funding plan, will probably be asking district voters to approve a 3-5 mill package this fall, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell announced today.

"The state's claim that we will receive $160 more per child is not really true," Assistant Superintendent Joel Carr stated, "because we are being asked to assume the employee's share of FICA (about $2 million) and the district's employee retirement costs (about another $800,000 to $1 million.)"

"The state supposedly will reimburse us for some of that money," Carr said, "but the amount to be returned remains up in the air."

Since the Romulus School District is already $2 million in debt and will only receive "token payments from the state in August and September," it already has borrowed $7.4 million on May 5 in anticipation of other shortfalls, Carr said.

"It looks a little scary at this time as we project a September image," Carr said, "but we are convinced that the legislature is preparing a new line of credit so districts will be able to meet their short-term cash flow needs."

"The school board is carefully studying our options for a millage vote this fall," Bedell said. "Right now it looks like the best options appear to be a 3-year, 3-mill enhancement tax and some type of sinking fund that will allow us to keep up to date on our technology program."

Bedell explained, "The sinking fund is similar to bond issue, in that we won't have to pay any interest, it will be a pay-as-you-go plan."

"None of the millage funds will be able to be used for salaries or to pay for the inflationary hikes of other costs," Bedell said, "they will only be allowed to be used to keep us up to date with current programs and projects."

The enhancement funds would be used for capital expenditures such as added technology equipment and replacement of about half of the district bus fleet (25 to 30 buses), Carr said.

COURT

the other two hit the kitchen and exploded, causing a fire.

The victim and her friend ran out of the house and escaped injury. They later told police that they recognized the defendants, who took off at a high rate of speed.

Within an hour of the firebombing, Michigan State Police stopped the defendants' vehicle on I-94 and Outer Drive and arrested the three occupants who were later charged with the arson of Fox's home.

"A week before the fire-bombing the victim's house was the target of a random shooting, and the defendants apparently thought the victim had spread the word that they were involved in the shooting," said Inkster Detective James Vergona who was in charge of the investigation. "She had not. But they apparently didn't believe her and came back with revenge on their minds."

The victim refused to talk to reporters after the jury found all three defendants guilty as charged.

Arson is a felony that could cost each defendant 20 years behind bars.

Johnson and Lovell Diamond bicycles, has between 50 and 60 bicycles in his collection.

His love of vintage bicycles drew Smith to the Wheelmen Club, where he now serves as state captain of the Michigan Division.

"The club is international, and is dedicated to the restoration and preservation of antique cycles. Our club is patterned after those in existence after the Civil War," Smith said. "Once a year, all of the division - some from Europe - meet at a site hosted by a different division. This year the Connecticut Division will host the annual meeting at Mystic seaport, and next year, Michigan will host the get-together at Greenfield Village during the Old Car Festival."

As state captain, Smith is already making plans for the event, which will also mark the 25th anniversary of the club's participation in the annual festival.

"We don't just restore the bikes. We also ride them."

CITY OF BELLEVILLE NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 13, 1994, at 7:30 p.m., at Belleville City Hall, 6 Main Street, Belleville, Michigan, the City Council of the City of Belleville will hold a Public Hearing on the levying in 1994 of an additional proposed millage rate of .032 for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The City of Belleville has the complete authority to establish that twenty (20) mills be levied in 1994 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1994 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982 by .0019%.

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the city. State equalized valuation will not be finalized until after the fourth Monday in May. In the event that state equalized valuation as finalized is for any reason higher than the estimate used for this hearing, the City of Belleville must hold another Public Hearing before levying millage on any high valuation.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not more than ten days after public hearing, the City of Belleville may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Council of the City of Belleville.

Outstanding 4th-grade teacher honored

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Although she's only been with the district seven years, school officials named Lincoln Elementary School fourth grade teacher Diane Duncan "Wayne-Westland Outstanding Teacher of the Year."

Duncan was given the title after being nominated for the Newsweek/Channel 4 WDIV Outstanding Teacher Awards by Lincoln Elementary Principal Marian Greer. Lincoln special education teacher Janice Tomlinson, who co-teaches with Duncan, seconded the nomination writing a letter of recommendation in support her co-worker.

"Mrs. Duncan's teaching style is diverse and offers her students variety and opportunities for learning. Diane teaches with a multi-sensory approach using music, art, movement, drama, and extensive co-operative learning experiences. Her energy, enthusiasm, humor and compassion makes evident her love of teaching," Tomlinson wrote.

School district administrators based their criteria on the Newsweek/WDIV criteria for outstanding teacher of the year. Qualities that make an outstanding teacher include: being able to excite students to learn and attain their maximum potential, understanding the individual needs of students and reaching them in ways which contribute to their knowledge and self-esteem, demonstrating a thorough knowledge of the subject taught and effectively teaching children, demonstrating classroom management, having a sound relationship with their fellow professionals and parents, and qualities which make them outstanding leaders and good citizens.

"Mrs. Duncan daily provides a safe, challenging environment for teaching and learning. She is a positive, upbeat person and is an asset to Lincoln School," Greer wrote in her letter of recommendation.

When Greer first approached Duncan to ask if she would accept the nomination, the fourth grade teacher said she was reluctant because there were several other teachers who had been educators longer and were more experienced.

Although Duncan graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a teaching degree in 1974, she decided to stay home and raise her two children, Katy, a sophomore at John Glenn High School and Neil, a graduate of John Glenn.

The 43-year-old Westland resident and wife of 22 years went back to work in 1979 at the Wayne-Westland YMCA preschool and then on to Red Bell Nursery School in Westland.

After returning to college to be re-certified as a teacher, Duncan became a substitute teacher in the Wayne-Westland School District in 1985 and began teaching second grade at Hicks Elementary as a full-time instructor in 1987. She also taught fifth and sixth grade at Lincoln and first grade at Elliott Elementary. "Diane believes in more than teaching reading, or English or spelling. She believes in impacting the person, providing an atmosphere where the individual learns their self-worth, their own importance, and recognizes they, too, have something to offer to others," Tomlinson wrote.

According to Duncan, a good teacher is, "A person who will take time to stop and listen to children when they're speaking. People get busy and tend to ignore youngsters. It's important to send a message that what they have to say is important."

The teacher added that it is also important to teach children how to locate resources.

"Every time you teach a child something, they're not always ready to learn. You need to teach them about resources - where they can go to get help when they need it," Duncan said.

Duncan maintains an open classroom environment where students feel comfortable asking questions.

"Students are sometimes afraid of looking foolish. It's important to establish a rapport where children feel they can approach you and ask you questions," Duncan said.

"I could not have done it without the support of my family and other staff members," Duncan added.

Kindred spirits Teacher's class is family

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Daly Elementary School teacher Jill Basherian thinks of her class as "family," which is probably one of the reasons that she is a nominee for the Michigan Teacher of the Year award.

"At the beginning of the term, I tell my class that we are together a large part of the day, and that they are my children. I'm not your mother, I tell them, but you are my children. We are a family together," said Basherian. "We may not always agree, but we can applaud each other's successes and help one another when we stumble."

"I want the kids to understand that it's OK to make mistakes, and that we must help each other to learn. Every one in the class has a different learning style and each one learns in different ways, and they bring different things from their home life and background to the classroom," she said.

Basherian said she hopes to convey her love of learning to the children in her class.

"There is something new to learn every day. We never stop learning," she said. "It is a wonderful world, and there are many wonderful things to learn about it."

"I respect the children and I want the children to respect me. I want us to work together as a team to find the best way to learn, and, hopefully, make learning a pleasure," Basherian said.

Basherian, who has been a teacher in the Westwood School District for more than 22 years, has taught elementary classes most of her career. Currently, she teaches 36 children in her third-grade class at Daly School.

She acknowledges that teaching is "not easy" considering the breakdown in family values and changes in society during the past decade.

"Yes, teachers have more to do these days," Basherian said. "We have to teach children how to work together and we have to teach social skills. For example, how do you work with someone who is not your best friend, and how do you disagree with someone without getting angry?"

She is humble about her nomination for the top teacher award, saying, "There are a lot of good teachers here. I don't think I do anything special."

Romulus Middle School technology teacher John Juriga is praised around the world.

He recently was awarded a Golden Apple award by the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency on the recommendation of his fellow science teacher Bill Thomas.

Thomas endorsed Juriga for his outstanding service overseas during his summer vacations. Five years ago Juriga went to Haiti and helped construct a school. This summer he is scheduled to travel to Russia and help build badly needed senior housing.

One of the ironies of the special award was that recently Juriga (who resides in Belleville) was planning on retiring after almost a half century as a shop instructor.

But when he was transferred a year ago to a new style of teaching in the school Technology Lab 2000, a computerized class setting in Good teachers are the rule rather than the exception in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, each successful in their own way, but one teacher may receive national recognition for her education efforts.

Carol Hudson Packard, a fourth-grade science teacher at Miller Elementary in Canton Township, said she knew nothing of her nomination for the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science and Mathematics Teaching, but found the process "quite exciting."

Packard's nomination was sent to the State Department of Education last fall by school principal Sam Barresi who views it as "important to recognize the talents of individuals."

"It says something for these teachers just to be nominated," he continued. "I sent the nomination in last fall, received some additional papers in the mail and wrote one of three letters of recommendation."

Packard was selected as a state awardee for the Elementary Presidential Awards for Excellence in Science Teaching several months ago. The science teacher was among three state winners who are now contenders for the national award.

"With a great deal of pride, the Department of Education has forwarded your name, along with the other candidates to the National Science Teachers Association," reads the notification Packard received in May. "A national selection committee will select one candidate from Michigan to receive the prestigious award."

Packard joined the Plymouth-Canton school district 10 years ago at Miller Elementary before being transferred to Bird Elementary School. The Plymouth Township resident transferred back to Miller after three years.

According to the veteran educator, the only secret of successful teaching is planning and vitality.

"It's really just being a normal everyday teacher with enthusiasm and focus," she said. "When you like what you do, it

Nick Kussey doesn't think of himself as an extraordinary teacher, but apparently many others - including his students - believe that he is.

"I don't see myself as special. There are many excellent teachers at Belleville High School (BHS) - many who are more deserving of recognition," said Kussey, an electronics instructor. "I guess someone in the administration submitted my name."

The vocational education teacher is one of several western Wayne County teachers who has been recognized in a statewide teachers' competition.

Kussey, who has been a teacher for 21 years, started the electronics program at BHS in 1984. Prior to that time, he worked in the Garden City schools for 11 years.

"If I do anything special, it is working with students in the vocational area who are not college bound," Kussey said. "Sometimes these students' needs are overlooked, although they are just as important as others. That's not a criticism of our school district, because I think it is a fantastic place. But, it is something that seems to be done in all schools."

Kussey noted that most high schools focus on college prep students.

"I teach students, not just material," said Kussey. "I try to set them on the right course."

Kussey said the electronics courses that he teaches prepare students for a good trade - one that will provide a good job and good money.

"We give our students the opportunity to learn a skill, and with their talents and skills, they can go anywhere and be successful," the BHS instructor said.

For some students, electronics is just not what their expectations were, and they can move on to something else, he said. But, for most, Kussey's classes can mean a ticket to success in a growing field.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

MUSICANS, BUSINESSES BOND TOGETHER TO FIGHT AGAINST CHILD ABUSE

IF I CARE, A CHILD I'LL SAVE

IF WE DARE, YOUNG LIVES ARE SAVED

IF WE HOLD HANDS TOGETHER

THIS WORLD COULD BE A BETTER PLACE.

Every day, three or more children die from wounds inflicted by someone they knew, trusted and loved. That ugly, but accurate, data was compiled by the National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

Between 1991-92, approximately 3,629 of 11,733 reported child abuse cases were substantiated in Wayne County and those numbers continue to grow.

Although the situation may appear hopeless, a group of concerned citizens including musicians, corporation managers, foundation administrators, social service agency worker, media representatives, educators and celebrities have banded together in an effort to stop the abuse against children.

The project, "If We Dare To Care," is the creation of Alyssa Martina, publisher of metroParent magazine in Detroit.

A three-year planning and fund raising effort has now come to fruition with the creation of a unique cassette If We Dare To Care, a collection of music from leading musicians in the state that not only heightens the awareness of child abuse, but it also educates and informs listeners about the seriousness of the problem, according to Martina.

"This was such a marvelous project to work on," Martina said. "We had a tremendous amount of support from corporations including TARGET, The International Order of Foresters, Little Caesars, MichCon and The Detroit Edison Foundation."

"Then we brought together the best musical talent in the state, and what was so wonderful is everyone hung their egos at the door. If we had to change a song, everyone worked together."

Martina said she was inspired by the "aid/relief" projects of Band Aid and Live Aid.

"Initiatives like 'Band Aid' have proven very successful, but we felt it was time that the children were helped," Martina said. "And who better to work on a musical project benefiting children than the very artists who perform for them."

Martina worked together with national folk singer Josh White Jr. on the theme song of the cassette If I Care. Even Detroit Pistons star, Isiah Thomas, joined in the effort by recording a special message about ways in which listeners can identify child abuse situations and how to get involved.

"Isiah was really terrific," Martina said. "He made time during his practices to narrate the special messages in the cassette."

On April 24, Martina and White joined the ensemble of children's performers who gathered at the Royal Oak Music Theater where each artist showcased a selection from the cassette.

All proceeds from the concert went to the Michigan Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse (MCPCA) for child abuse prevention programs.

"We were so pleased by the turn out at the performance," Martina said. "We had hundreds of supporters there, and everyone seemed to understand the messages in the songs. Child abuse is a problem that won't go away until we're ready to address it. We can't just sit back any more and let it happen. We have to start doing something about it."

White, who has performed in numerous theaters throughout the U.S. relays a message of respect and spirituality through his performances. He said, "It was an honor to be a part of a project that directly assists children."

"Child abuse is something that needs more exposure," White said. "We need to expose it so we can find more solutions."

White said he enjoys performing in front of any audience. The largest crowd he inspired was during a visit from the pope when White was asked to perform at Hart Plaza in Detroit.

"Music is such an infectious thing," White said. "I'm just grateful I can carry a tune. There are a lot of people who have the ability to write music, but they tend to take the short route to make money."

"For me, I see it as a duty to make people aware of important issues such as child abuse."

White, who is a father of six children, said all parents will be able to relate to the Dare to Care tape.

"I think the message is very clear for all parents to understand," White said. "A lot of us are from parents who are from the old school days where you 'Do as I say and not as I do.' Children learn from experience and from watching what their parents do. As parents, we have to learn to do more for our children. We have to love them and nurture them from the time they are born."

Martina said child abuse affects everyone even though it may not occur in every home.

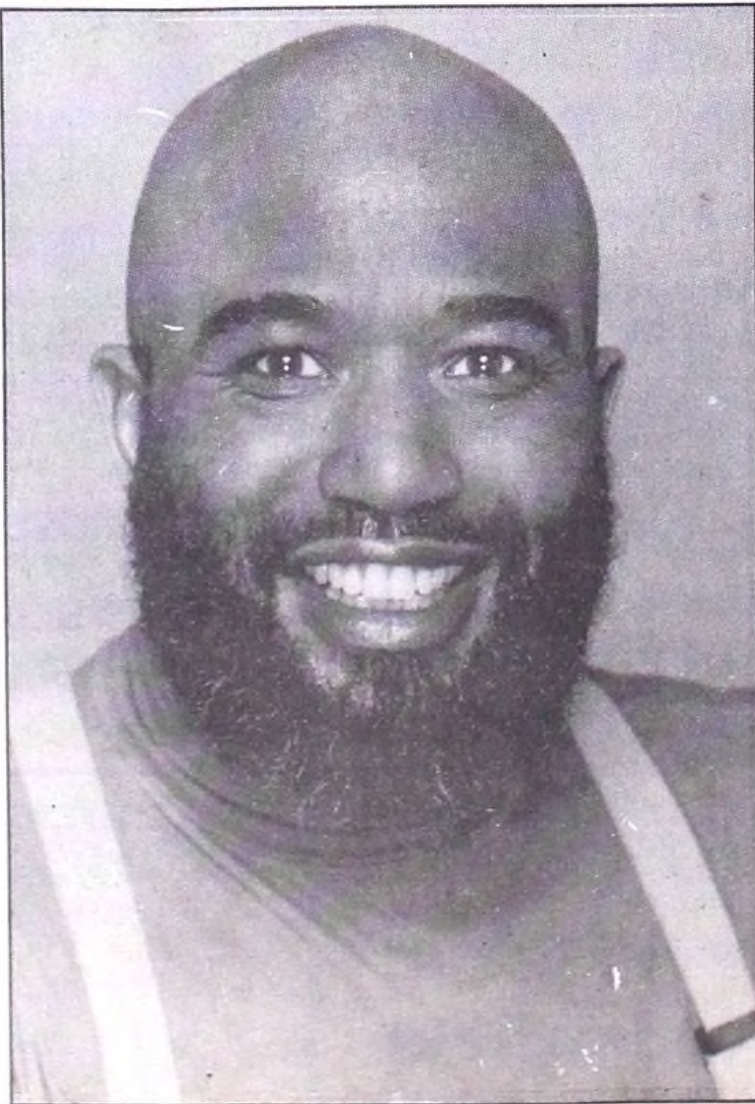

"It could be a neighbor's child who plays with your child or perhaps your daughter will marry someone who was abused as a child," Martina said.

"Everyone is affected in some way, and it's time we hear the cries of the children that so often go unheard. We're not just talking about physical abuse. Emotional abuse is just as damaging."

What can be done to prevent child abuse? Martina said one of the best preventive methods is to talk about it.

"We have to start recognizing the rights of children," Martina said. "Parents have to realize that although they may come home stressed out from their work at the office, it doesn't mean they can take it out on their children."

"It's important for us as parents to accept our limitations. We need to realize that we have to take a break once in awhile. This tape is for all parents, grandparents and anyone who loves children."

To purchase an If We Dare To Care tape, call (810)352-0990. The cost is $10, and the proceeds will go toward (MCPCA) for child abuse prevention programs.

Martina created metroParent magazine in 1986 after serving five years as legal counsel for Wayne County Circuit Court. She said she established a family magazine in order to fill a void for parents by providing current and salient information on a number of relevant topics as well as an extensive calendar of family events.

The monthly publication serves a readership of more than 175,000 in the metropolitan area.

Area man pleads guilty to unarmed robbery of store

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

A Westland man, who turned himself in to police after committing an unarmed robbery outside a Westland drug store, pleaded guilty to the charge before Detroit Recorder's Judge Michael Sapala Tuesday.

Robert Jeffrey Raines, 22, is scheduled to be sentenced on the charge June 14 and a second charge of larceny over $100 is expected to be dismissed in accordance with a plea bargain agreement, according to court officials. Raines, who is being held on a $10,000 cash bond, could be sentenced to up to 15 years in prison on the unarmed robbery charge.

While Westland police were in the process of investigating the April 11 unarmed robbery outside Perry Drugs store located at 31162 Warren in Westland, Raines notified police that he committed the crime, Westland police Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

"He called the station and turned himself in. When we arrested him, he said he did it because he had a bad crack cocaine habit and was an alcoholic," Stobbe said.

The Westland robbery occurred around 9:40 p.m. when a 30-year-old Garden City woman was robbed of her purse containing credit cards and $5 in cash, police reports said.

The incident occurred after the victim returned to her car after shopping at the drug store, according to police. A man she had noticed on the pay telephone when she entered the building, approached her from behind and grabbed her purse as she began to unlock her driver's side door, police reports said.

The woman began to struggle and scream and the perpetrator pushed her in the side and ran westbound through the parking lot and then northbound across Warren Road with the victim's purse in hand, police said.

Raines also confessed to taking three shotguns from his father's home in Lincoln Park around 1:35 p.m. on April 15. The defendant said he traded the weapons for crack cocaine, according to Lincoln Park police Sgt. Tim Reedy.

$21 million airport lighting, signage project announced

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A massive $21 million airfield lighting and signage upgrade project will begin this summer at Detroit Metro Airport, Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara announced recently.

"The project is made possible because of the outstanding cooperation we have received from the airlines serving Metro customers and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA)," McNamara said.

The funds will be coming from the FAA and general revenue bonds, supported by the airlines, he said.

The program that stresses quality and uniformity also has gotten the strong support of Northwest Airlines, which handles more than 70 percent of Metro Airport passengers.

"The airport staff deserves credit for an excellent plan," said Dan DeBord, Northwest regional director of airport affairs. "This is a well engineered project that further enhances Metro's safety capabilities."

The revisions and replacements of airport lighting and signage will make older Metro runways and taxiways meet the same safety standards as those imposed on the new construction.

Circuiting, regulators and signage on the four Metro runways will be reworked to match standards incorporated into the construction of the new Metro runway (9R/27L), which opened last November.

"Among the most important elements of this project is the replacement of electrical regulators for airfield lighting for which it is becoming increasingly difficult to find parts," said Airport Director Robert Braun.

Included will be revisions to taxi-way lighting, runway centerline lighting, edge lighting and the replacement of nearly 350 signs.

"Extensive coordination (during the two-year construction project) will be required between airport operations, the control tower and the airlines to safely execute the project and minimize disruption to air traffic," said Charles Sherrill, Airport Operations Director.

Perilous returns to the Fisher

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Deputy News Editor

Back by popular demand, Perilous Times is heading to the Fisher Theatre June 7-12.

Perilous Times is one of the most explosive and compelling Gospel dramas to emerge from the Detroit theatrical scene in decades.

The moving performance is written, produced and directed by Detroit native T.J. Hemphill. Perilous Time is a vivid depiction of the battles people face daily.

The musical addresses current social perils while delivering a message of hope and promise.

"The inspiration for this production, believe it or not, came from years ago, an old Sunday School class during the Easter season," Hemphill said. "Myself and a friend of mine were actually thinking of the same thing at the same time."

"We got together, and created a biblical play. That production entitled The Revelation of Jesus Christ played at the Ford auditorium in 1985. It sat on the shelf, however, for a few years after it's debut."

Hemphill said one day he started thinking about the play, and decided to "pull it out of the hopper."

"But, at that time, I just felt something was missing," Hemphill said.

"By growing up in the Brewster Projects and teaching in the Detroit Public Schools, I got to see all of the blight of Detroit. I felt if we were going to impact people, we have to bring a message to them which would change the nature of the place so that they would be interested in coming."

T.J. Hemphill

Hemphill said. "So, I decided to rewrite the entire play and bring it to a 1990s current setting."

"I believe if you want to reach people with a real strong message, sometimes you have to go to where they are."

Raised in the Brewster projects on the lower east side, Hemphill had a dream to help people. He graduated from Detroit Eastern High School and continued his education at Wayne State University where he achieved a degree in education.

Hemphill was a teacher for eight years in the Detroit Public Schools. He took on the music and auditorium program voluntarily after the lack of funds prevented these programs from continuing. It was through this experience that Hemphill said he developed his love for the theater and the stage.

"By growing up in the Brewster Projects and teaching in the Detroit Public Schools, I got to see all of the blight of Detroit," Hemphill said. "I felt if we were going to impact people, we have to bring a message to them which would change the nature of the place so that they would be interested in coming."

Perilous Times is a production which appeals to audiences of all ages, according to Hemphill. Tickets are now on sale for the production. To charge by phone call (810)645-6666. For special group discounts or parties of 20 or more call (313)871-1132.

expense trip to Washington D.C. in the spring of 1995 and an educational grant.

"The National Science Foundation will give the awardee's school a $7,500 grant to be used over a three-year period to improve the science program," said Packard. "I don't know right now what we'd use the money for. I don't want to pull the cart before the horse and I'm trying to put it out of my mind in the meantime."

All state awardees will be honored by the state Department of Education at a recognition dinner in January 1995 and at the Michigan Science Teachers Association conference in Lansing one month later.

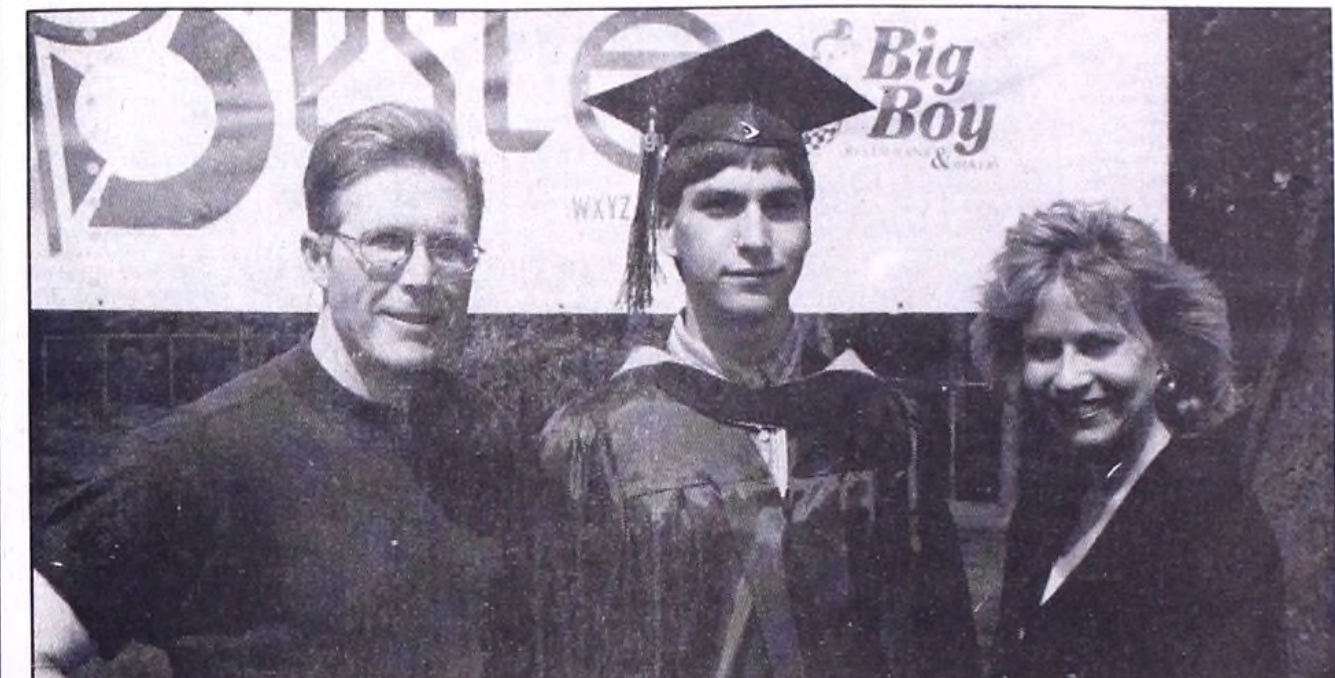

Barresi is proud of Packard's accomplishments and believes the award is not only a reflection of the teacher, but also the district.

"Carol is one of many outstanding teachers in Plymouth-Canton. If she were to win the Presidential Award it would be a tribute to her and her teaching abilities, but also to the district who develops a curriculum that makes science come alive."

Although Packard's teaching ability is just now being recognized by the state, a group of more important critics have already showed their appreciation.

"We went on a field trip to the Howell nature center last week and my students told me I acted like a kid. When I asked them what about me made them think I acted like a kid, they said 'anyone who picks up bugs with us is a kid,'" she said.

Brightest and best

Several area students were recently selected to participate in the WXYZ-TV Brightest and Best public service campaign, a tribute to Michigan high school students who have demonstrated excellence in academic and community pursuits. Visiting recently with Channel 7 reporter Mike Huckman, left, are Makeida Stubbs of Inkster from Inkster Christian Academy, Leilah Toth of Belleville from Belleville High School, Jacquelyn Long of Inkster from Inkster High School, Staci Steffani of Romulus from Romulus High School and Channel 7 reporter Shellee Smith. City water mysteriously disappears

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A mysterious turn-off of water pressure at Merriman and Hale Creek Elementary schools in Romulus on Thursday morning threatened briefly to close the schools, officials reported.

A spokeswoman at Hale Creek School said the lack of water was first discovered about 10:30 a.m. The school district office was notified, as was the city Department of Public Works.

Water pressure also dropped in some homes in the Oakbrook and Meadow subdivisions.

Mel Zilka, assistant director of the Department of Public Works, reported about a half dozen "no water" complaints

"Right now I can't tell you what happened, we even cruised neighborhoods but could find no main breaks."
Mel Zilka

were received from city residents and the schools.

Zilka said the city also checked with the Detroit Water Co. to make sure it had not ordered any water turn offs in Romulus. "Right now I can't tell you what happened, we even cruised neighborhoods but could find no main breaks," he said.

Local residents said they saw some repair work being done at the intersection at Pennsylvania and Vining roads, but were told that project would have nothing to do with the water outages.

Shortly before 11:30 a.m. when the two schools were about to make a decision on shutting down for the day, a faculty member at Hale Creek flushed a toilet in the school rest room and found the water had returned, just as mysteriously as it had halted.

A check with the Department of Public Works office Friday morning revealed no further water shortages were reported Thursday afternoon or overnight.

TEACHER

revitalized Juriga's interest in teaching.

No longer thinking of retirement, Juriga can't wait to get to class each day to work with the students of the '90s.

Juriga provides an introduction to 18 or more different technologies available through the program that has gained the nickname "Smart Lab" and serves as a prelude to the students' future high school studies.

While many in society today still have to travel the proverbial five miles from home to be deemed an "expert," Juriga gets deep praise from the students working in his own classroom.

A small group of his current students have learned to share Juriga's new enthusiasm for learning.

Juriga also adds another exciting level to education. He urges his students not to be afraid of making a mistake.

"Many times we learn more from our mistakes than our successes. Some of my A students can pull out the mistakes from their career folder with pride and show what they have learned from them," Juriga said.

That has excited Juriga to consider teaching for another 25 years!

just rubs off."

Packard attributes part of her success to the school district.

"You can't do this without the help of administration and the curriculum designed around you," Packard said. "This is a safe place to learn and when you start living science (as designed in the curriculum), it just becomes part of you."

The Eastern Michigan alumnus will be crossing her fingers until early September, when the national awardees will be announced. Aside from the recognition, award recipients will receive an all-
